welcome, acquaint sophies

The first official student gathering of the 1978-79 year was the Hello Assembly held in the school gym. With rousing fight songs and a "King Tut" skit, new students and teachers were welcomed into Toro country.

Although the Hello Dance was a place to welcome sophies, it was also an opportunity for all of the classes to boogie down. The seniors and juniors greeted classmates whom they somehow didn't get to know last year. Even the faculty did some dancing with students and colleagues. Summer romances were forgotten and fresh faces suddenly took on an enchanting beauty.

Floats, functions, feature fans, friends

Pep Club sponsored Spirit Week with festivities including sweat suits, band-aids, combat boots, and crutches. Students decked out to show the football players they were behind them 100%.

Class floats started a tradition of beauty and talent with the Senior float taking first place and the Sophies coming in second. Rain had hampered production slightly but loyal fans strived for completion of their endeavor.

The Homecoming Assembly was enjoyable for all with skits, songs, royalty nominations, and fun friends highlighting the annual occasion.

1-"The Rise of Power" was the motto for first place senior float winning five points in the class competition. 2-Second place with three points were the sophomores with their motto "Time to go Forth". 3-Gyrating a hula at Homecoming Alumni assembly are Jack Garvin and David Foster. 4-Junior class float, "Leading the Charge" won third place with only one point. 5-Showing school spirit on "Bang-'em-Up-Day" are Mrs. Nelson, Greg Broberg, Theresa Partel and Sherry Matheson discuss first aid. 6-Music comes from the piano as Alumni Homecoming Queen Heidi Nelson plays at the assembly.

Homecoming for the Mountain View alumni was a total success complete with a beautiful parade of floats, selection of popular court choices and,most of all, a stunning victory over a strong and determined Coronodo high school team. Float cometition was won resoundingly by the seniors' theme, "The Rise of Power".

Miss Jennifer Schonthaler was selected Homecoming Queen and Homecoming King was Rodney Brewer as he helped the Toros to another victory against the "Dons".

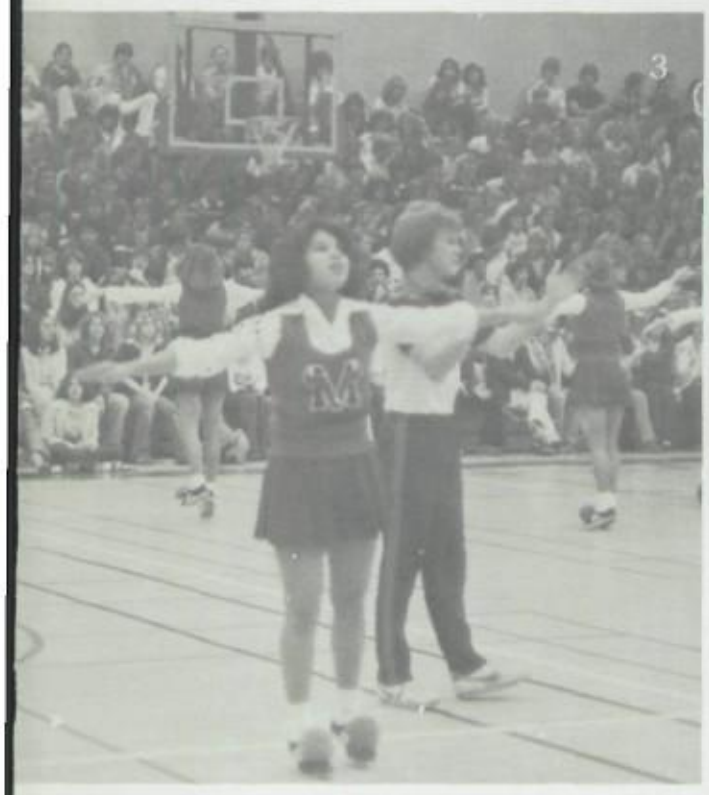
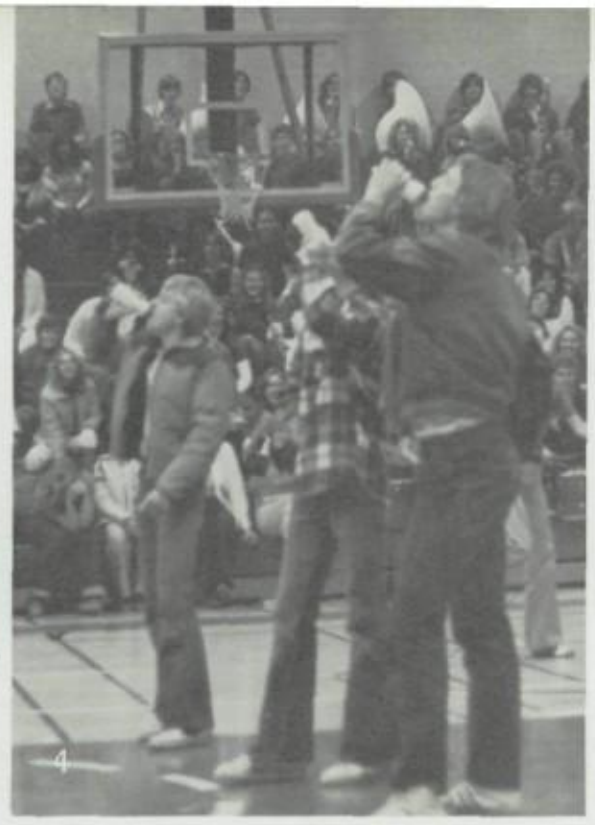
1-Catching everyone's eye, Teresa Derka does a back handspring. 2-Mr. Lloyd and Ms. Marsom show everyone how to disco. 3-Angella Cassillas demonstrates a new cheer. 4-Sophomores obviously win the Baby Bottle contest, as Todd Tucker shows Todd Rogers and Barry Laird who is the hungriest baby of all. 5-Seniors wish Merry Christmas with their third place winner of Christmas window competition. 6-Santa came "Home for the Holidays" in the winning Christmas window competition. 7-Luminous eyes of a wondering child states the theme of the juniors second-place creation on cafeteria window.





As basketball prodded football from the sports stage, Mountain View students and faculty came together to support Coach Pipes and the Toro basketball team in assembly, and the Christmas window competition stirred up the holiday mood for everyone. First place was taken by a nostalgic family scene, "Home for the Holidays," and second place was garnered by the Juniors' "Christmas through the eyes of a Child."

1-Christmas was the season for the Centennial Youth Fair. 2-Anne Gunnell giggles as John Crum sneaks a peck on the cheek. 3-Linda Tucker has a high rise job tying balloons at the fair. 4-Kathy and Krissy Nettlow get a high kick out of life. 5-Observing the fair is Grant Frazier. 6-Backrow; Andrea Gonzolas and Kathy Nettlow, front row; Krissy Nettlow and Bridget McCarter, dance for audience at the Centennial Fair. 7-Billy Salus and Shelly Coppo enjoy presentation of the Centennial Youth Fair.

The Centennial Youth Fair was an event held in honor of Mesa's Centennial and to help raise funds for the people of Mesa. Due to the weather it was the second time such a fair was scheduled in Mesa. The committee worked in conjunction with the parks and recreation department with the understanding that proceeds would be put back into the city to some how improve things for the youth of Mesa. Pioneer Park, centrally located in the city, was the site for the gathering. Many people supported the fair and much success with the booths and entertainment was achieved.

Performers stage Vaudeville talents

Smashing! This was the review for the 1979 version of the talent show as "Ease on Down the Road" a routine from the play, " The Wiz" was performed as an opener by Marian Hervy. Additionally, routines of dancing, singing, and an Elvis Presley impression by John Strader brought thunderous ovations from the Mountain View audience. Acts were kept moving by Mountain View's own version of a "wild and crazy guy" Chris Bates, who functioned as the show's emcee.

1-It's John Strader as the King, Elvis Presley backed up by Jeff Schoeh on drums. 2-Gene Erlandson and Lenore Burroughs dance to the sounds of "The Wiz". 3-I am a "wild and crazy guy" says Chris Bates doing his impression of Steve Martin. 4-Penny Kidwell sings "Talking in your sleep" during the talent show. 5-Presenting a new family of Mountain View, the Klinkers, are Lisa Stewart and Paul Scott. 6-Fascinating with magic is Allan Wade.

1-Mark Tucker, Tom Turley and Roger Moffat do some high kicks and show off their legs. 2-Rick Carpenter fixes his skirt while waiting for the game to start. 3-Defense is a wide arm span; Lynn Sanofsky cuts off passing attempt of opposition. 4-Powder-puffers Brenda Frazier, Paula O'dell and Cindy Ritchie. 5-Senior powder puff cheerleaders have senioritis and try to scratch it off. Front to back; David Robinson, David Jamieson, Ron Stapely, Steve Ink and far right, Tim Kephart. 6-Terri Heckman and Wendy Stalec stretch for jump ball.

Juniors cleaned up all competition at the Powder Puff Basketball game this year. After losing to the sophomores initially, they defeated the seniors and in a rematch with the sophomores, won again. In addition, the juniors swept cheerleading competition.

In final results, the sophomores garnered second place in the basketball competition and third honors in cheerleading. While the seniors of "79" finally placed third in basketball, they managed to achieve a second ranking in cheerleading. Excitement was the most intense when the sophomores showed the school once again their intense spirit and desire to excell.

1-Students enjoy the atmosphere at K-Mart while munching on hamburgers. 2-Randi Germaine tests the cuisine of a fast-food chain. 3-Adding catsup to his burger is Scott Harris. 4-Various sophies can be found in the school cafeteria. 5-Slirping shakes at Jack-in-the-Box are Keith Karam and friend. 6-Todd Tucker is caught chomping a fry at McDonalds.

With a longer lunch hour this year, students found time to enjoy off-campus fast-food chains and restaurants. The cafeteria, which was also supported by students, reflected a less hectic atmosphere because of the double lunch hour schedule. Some people however, didn't bother with the usual lunch break. Relying upon their morning donut runs for their daily sustenance, they enjoyed a full hour of relaxation and rapping on Toga hill.

From Disseldorf with pride

Anne Krall, a Mountain View foreign exchange student from Disseldorf, Germany, is "Proud to be a Mountain View student". And is also impressed with the school spirit.

"I received a warm welcome from both students and faculty," Anne said. Her American family is the Schmitz family who also have a daughter, Kathy Schmitz, attending Mountain View in the class of 80'. Anne notes that both students and faculty have shown sincere interest in her experiences and life in Disseldorf. As for herself, she has had an exciting time at Mountain View because the student body spirit is so magnificent.

Spirit captivates Nakade

Mike Nakade, a Mountain View foreign exchange student from Eukeri, Japan, has two brothers Atushi and Osamu Nakade, but Mike says he enjoys being treated as an only son by his sponsoring family, the Brewers, who have no children of their own. Mike has both learned to like and respect the Brewers, and as Mike says, "They are Super-Nice." Mike says he also envies the quality of the school spirit shown by the Toros.

"In the Japan High School, students almost always need to study so we don't have the school spirit like Mountain View students do. "Mike Observes the freedom of selection American students enjoy: "The schedule in Japan is made by the school from Monday to Saturday and we have no choices."

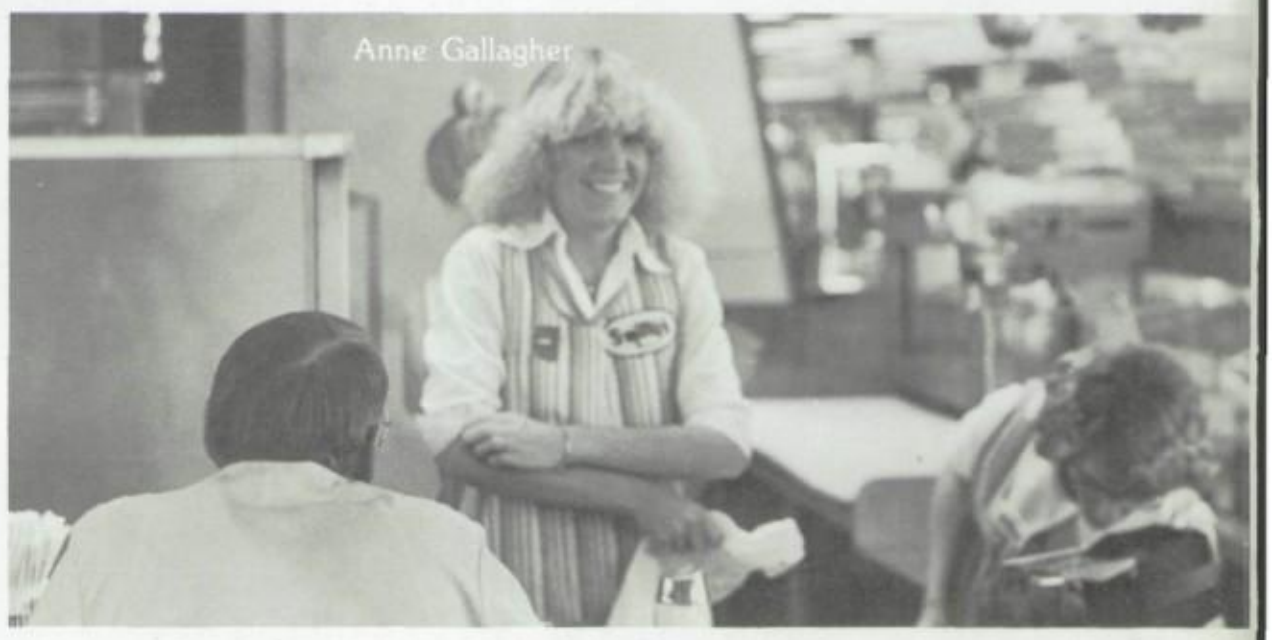
Taking care of business makes bucks

Gianing a sense of independence from self-earned money has been Melinda Enfield's greatest satisfaction working in Smitty's shoe department. "Learning to work with a variety of people has been most educational," Melinda says. Though the job calls for being aware of prices as well as inventory, Melinda must also recognize the customer's right to have time for decision-making while selecting shoes.

Melinda Enfield

Mike Reese

The hot Arizona sun can often be man's enemy, but with Mike Reese's help and that of his employer, Aluma Line Screens, the local Mesa motorist gets some protection from the broiling rays. Mike installs such things as shade screns for house windows, porch enclosures and automobile deflection screens. Mike enjoys being independent and says, "When you work on your own this early in life, it will help you a lot in the future."



Anne Gallagher

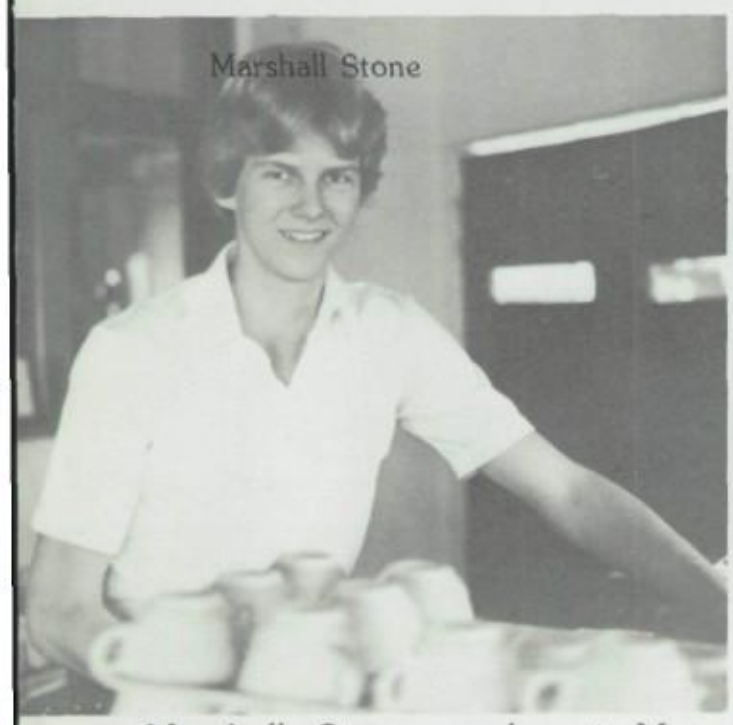
Convincing a customer that there is more than one flavor of meringue while continuing to smile; making her first cup of coffee; getting to know how to run a snack bar; these are a few of the challenges Anne Gallagher faces in her job as a fast order waitress in Smitty's at Greenfield and Apache Trail. Despite these harrassing moments, this Mountain View girl appreciates the independence that extra money has given her. "Now when I buy presents for people they're from me and not my folks."

Steve Watt

Other than trying to handle "uncontrolled anklebiters" (kids), Steve Watt enjoys working at the Bike Chalet. He has learned a lot about skiing, the bicycle business, and also how to work with the customers. Steve is a ski fan, so with his extra money he goes skiing and saves some for college. Bike Chalet is located in Village Grove at McKellips and Gilbert. Steve encourages everyone to come by.

Melanie Fuller is presently working for the money, but also because future career aspirations involve management skills and this experience is vital to developing them. Melanie is employed at Frys on Gilbert and University as a courtesy clerk, and as time permits, she hopes to be promoted to a manager's position. Since working with the public as she has, Melanie has had opportunity to experience managerial demands.

Melanie Fuller



Marshall Stone

Marshall Stone works at Mesa Country Club on weekends as a busboy. Marshall says, "I like working because I could use the money and it's a good experience." The good thing about Marshall's job is he can work on the weekends and still keep up his grades.

Kelli Behring

The D.O. program here at Mountain View has surely been an advantage for Kelli Behring. She is a medical assistant for Dr. Walter McEarchern, Pulmonologist. She attended the Blair College for six weeks, four hours a day. Kelli says, "It's very good money and I like the satisfaction of knowing that I am helping people get well".

Jim Valdez works as head cook at Nacho's on Bush Highway. Jim says working gives him spending money for the weekends and for when he just wants to do something with his friends. Jim says one almost has to have a job these days, even at our age, if he wants to have any fun. He also adds, "I don't work too hard, I give orders."

Of those familiar with books and such

While sports awards and state achieviment have been a delicious diet for Mountain View this year, there has been no skimping on academic accomplishment. Averaging almost straight 1's, the top twenty students distinguished themselves among over two thousand on campus. Two of these, Walter Wood, and Marc Chappell, achieved National Merit Finalist Status. Besides these scholars, the student body produced artists of the first stellar such as Mark Hobley. In addition, several writers recieved national recognition by the National Council far Teachers of English. Athletic accomplishment and academic achivement is the two-pronged sign of the toro, so when you hold those two fingers aloft, know that it has symbolic significance for all of us.

1-The top twenty academic students in the school bask in the Arizona sun and the distinction of their honors. Top row: Brett Harrell, David Jamieson, Grant Frazier, Steve Durney, Curtis Winkle, John Hart. Bottom row: Maria Salza, Lisa Stewart, Dila Miculs, Kenna Brackney. Laurel Carlson, Jill Brackett, Julie Harrell, Lynda Hayes, Shelly Coppo, Terry Niller and Lynn Throckmorton, 2-National achievement was brought home to Mountain View by Merit Finalists, Marc Chapell and Walter Wood. 3-Despite marked hearing loss, Karin Smith and Bob Dixon have acquired honor society standing, wide knowledge, and critical skills from their tutor Mrs. Cox, shown here. 4-Also receiving national attention, Jane Cummings' writing was selected to compet for National Council of English Teachers award. 5-After local competition, where he was awarded the covete Kidak Medallion of Excellence, photographer Lyndell Deitz exhibited his work at New York City Scholastic Art Show. To invent, to write, to crate, to declaim. An environment created for all these things, Mountain View High has tried to intensify the beat of living genius, through chalenging its students and they have not been found lacking. Exhibiting the fruits of a quality education, the student body enterd several competition this year in response to national standards and challenges. From Scholastic art awards to a DAR scholarship.

Doughnuts diet for ditchers and dozers

There are many times when the average student finds something better to do than go to class. This is widely known as "ditching". The next day our teachers hear such excuses as, "I was attacked by cannibals." "The janitor was fixing the sewer line, I fell in the hole."

Ditching is frowned upon, but everyone loves doughnuts and M.V. students have periodic attacks when the doughnut run is made.

Finding career may be difficult for some Anticipating one's career may often be diffrent for students, but career placment information is always readily available through the counselours in "The Place". Using numorus guest speakers, the career services office assists students in gathering first-hand testimony of people in a particular field. In addition, the office provide the "Trovack" wich houses facts and detail concerning colleges throughout the United States. Also there are many alternate Audio Visual methods of acquiring career and college facts. "The Place is open throughout the school day and provides services to both students and classroom teachers.

1-As new services become available, new careers evolve, a guest speaker from Maricopa Tech outlines the qualification of a dental assistant. 2-Sherri Palmer Foarde thinks over what was discussed in "The Place". 3-Ms. Cahill look over one of the students work. 4-Models from "The Broadway" listen to audience question during panel discussion on fashions careers. 5-Ms. Prator explain the "Torovack" to a student. 6-Marine recruiter trys to recruite Rodney Brewer and Mark Willams.

Sharin Nicholson

Cheryl Tiegs, Farrah Fawcett, Cindy Harret, Sharin Nicholson, all of these girls have several things in common besides beauty. They are of course, all models. Sharin Nicholson has the distinction of being a student here at M.V., and could some day be as popular as these other ladies. Sharin won an award at Plaza Three for modeling clothes, and she says she'd like to give Arizona's Jr. Miss a try next year. She also plans to do other modeling next year. She says, "I want to be a professional model and possibly an actress.

Carolyn Zirker

Carolyn Zirker has a special friend named Kenny that she is willing to speak up for at anytime. In fact, Carolyn has supported Kenny most of his life, even to the point of "putting words into his mouth." Of course, Carolyn is a ventriliquist and Kenny is her constant companion. As a team, they are so good that they've made appearances in Hawaii and Mexico City. Visiting the school recently, Kenny entertained us with his favorite songs, "ABC" and "supercalifraglistic." Together, Carolyn and her friend Kenny are joined by Carolyn's sister Katherine who is also a ventiliquist. Their other talents include singing, and they are both in Mountain View's orchestra.

Mike St. Louis

Mike St. Louis is one of those who helps keep the city safe. As a volunteer explorer for the Mesa Police Department, who started this job last May, Mike says, "It's a job I enjoy doing." Although the job hasn't been dangerous as of yet, it could get that way at anytime. Mike controls such things as games, dances, parades, etc. He says he wants to continue working with the police. Lets keep Mesa a safe place to live!

Richard Meagher: Even as a sophomore this year, Richard shows talent! Working mostly with cardboard and scrapes found around the house, he builds his own models and is especially good with Star Wars characters. Not only is this a hobby for Richard, but he says, "I want to be the best model maker special effects has ever seen." Among Richards more elaborate projects, he has made in detail, a costume of the fantastic charactor, Darth Vader. In this creation, Meagher recreated the monster for Halloween.

Eric Devine

Tony Wende spends most of his spare time in activities associated with an auxiliary of the air force called the Civil Air Patrol, a non-profit organization whose mission is the search and rescue of downed aircraft. Tony joined the Patrol two years ago because of his fascination with aircraft. From the first time he was in an airplane until now Tony knew that aircraft would be his future. Tony likes his hobby enough to have had a T-shirt made saying, "I'M JUST PLANE CRAZY." We believe it!

Tony Wende

Eric Devine has a special talent about him. He is an impersonater. He mimics such people as Rich Little, Richard Nixon, President Carter, Elvis Presley and many others. Eric was in our talent show in '77. He hopes to go into show biz and do this professionally one day. Shown mimmicing Nixon in photo.

Lori Acierto: Dogs have been Lori's main interest since early childhood. She has had entries competing in National Shows many times and recently won the Junior National Showing Award with a perfect score, which is a very rare feat in national competition. As a volunteer worker for a National Kennel Club, Lori helps register and rate dogs. Now that she is 17, she can't compete in the Junior Classification any more but rated as an adult, she is head of the program in the Arizona State Kennel Club. Since Lori has a special talent with dogs,she says there is a big future ahead of her. She says she always wants to work with show dogs.

Marian Harvey

Marian Hervey is one of those "stage freaks". She makes that clear by saying, "I love the stage, if I could I'd like to go to New York and work a play; live, eat, sleep and act like my character for a month. Marian is in the National Thespians club which is a drama union for all stage members. She has been in such plays as "Oliver," "Tubes", and "Trouble in the Air", playing the major role in most of them. Marian says drama is hard. It takes alot of determination, long hours, alot of energy, and a very BIG ego.

Mary Cole

"My slow hobby" is how Mary Cole describes her interest in turtles. The interest began in seventh grade when a friend's mother crocheted two turtles as a Christmas gift to her. "They were the only stuffed animals I had". From then on the word "turtle" was used daily by Mary. She has turtle posters, stuffed animals, potholders, jewelery, candles and much more. Mary's turtle object count is now up to one hundred and fifteen.

For six years Jane Cummings has been training dogs. Although she is now training just for fun, this hobby could turn into a professional career for Jane. She became interested in training through 4-H, and has trained such dogs as Boarder Collies, English Shepherds, and English Setter mix. She shows them in obedience.

Jane Cummings

Kevin Morstain

He always plays for keeps. Kevin Morstain was city marbles champion in Gruver, Tex. in the fifth grade; the following year he defeated the Mesa champion in a formal playoff at Rendevouz Park. Since then, collecting unusual marbles has been his hobby and he's accumulated over seven thousand which he stores in a wastepaperbasket at home. This summer he will inherit the huge collection of his late grandfather.

Riding with only one foot and bunny-hopping are two of the techniques Steve Rowley employe in developing his unicyle riding ability. Although it took Steve almost two entire weeks to manage the unicycle, he now is able to use it for transportation to school, running errands, and general getting around. In fact, he and a few buddies get together about every week to play unicycle basketball which is extremely challenging since one hand must be used to dribble.

Lucky Le[illegible]ckwell

Lester Blackwell known as "Lucky Lee", has a special knack when it comes to the fiddle. He is also known as The Wonder Boy Fiddler. Lester now holds the 1976-77 Arizona junior championship. He has won many awards and has been in a lot of contests. Lester has played a small role in the movies, "The Oregon Trail", "The Waterhole", and "Ragtime Annie.

Designing and making stuffed mice is Tami Workman's hobby. Her older sister Linda, who learned the craft from studing a magazine and experimenting, taught Tami how to make the six inch dolls. The mice vary in style. Tami has made such dolls as Colonial ladies, Clowns, Hawaiian dancer, and a different doll for each holiday.

Lexie Coston

Artestic welding has been Lexie Coston's art form for over a year. Being able to do something other people would consider a boys hobby is Lexie's biggest satisfaction. She built a waterbed stand; stereo stand and several frames for her father. Developing "a touch" to avoid unintentionally getting the metal stuck has been a problem Lexie has to overcome.

One hundred years ago, in February of 1878, a group of 83 Mormon pioneers in ox-drawn wagons camped on a square mile patch of barren desert. At first, slowly nursed to life by water from ancient Indian canals reexcavated by hand, this fruitless land became the burgeoning, bustling, beautiful city that we call Mesa, Arizona.

Muddy lanes have evolved into wide palm tree-lined boulevards puncuated by electronically controlled traffic lights and nurtured now by the Salt River Project, the cracked and barren plain has become one of the most progressive and prosperous properties in the United States.

La Vista honors dedicated sharp

The staff of LaVista would like to honor and give special recognition to a retired board member, Mr. Lynn H. Sharp, for his services on the Mesa Board of Education and to the community at large over fourteen years.

When Lynn Sharp was first elected in 1965 there were only fourteen schools in Mesa. By 1975, the school population had grown to twelve thousand students and today, Mesa accomodates thirty-three thousand scholars in forty-three schools. Mr. Sharp has been involved in the construction of twenty-nine of these schools.

On January 9, 1979, Lynn Sharp delivered his farewell address to board members and colleagues in the first meeting of the new year in the district board room. He said that the selecting of a superintendent was the biggest decision he faced and that . . . "it was the greatest, hardest, and most far-reaching decision we had to make." It was this choice that brought Dr. George N. Smith to the superintendency in 1968.

Mr. Sharp said, "The most rewarding thing about being a board member is to see students achieve through special programs," He added that the building of Mountain View was especially rewarding because he had been responsible for finding the ground it was finally built upon, and he enjoyed being a part of its development.

In concluding his farewell address to the board, Mr. Sharp cited the motto of the U.N. Children's Campaign that he felt should remain foremost with the new board: "A child's life is fragile, and if he is to have a tomorrow, his needs must be met today."

As the beat goes on, it is men such as Mr. Sharp that make America's tomorrows possible. The yearbook staff of Mountain View and the entire community of Mesa extends its thanks to a good man, Lynn H. Sharp.

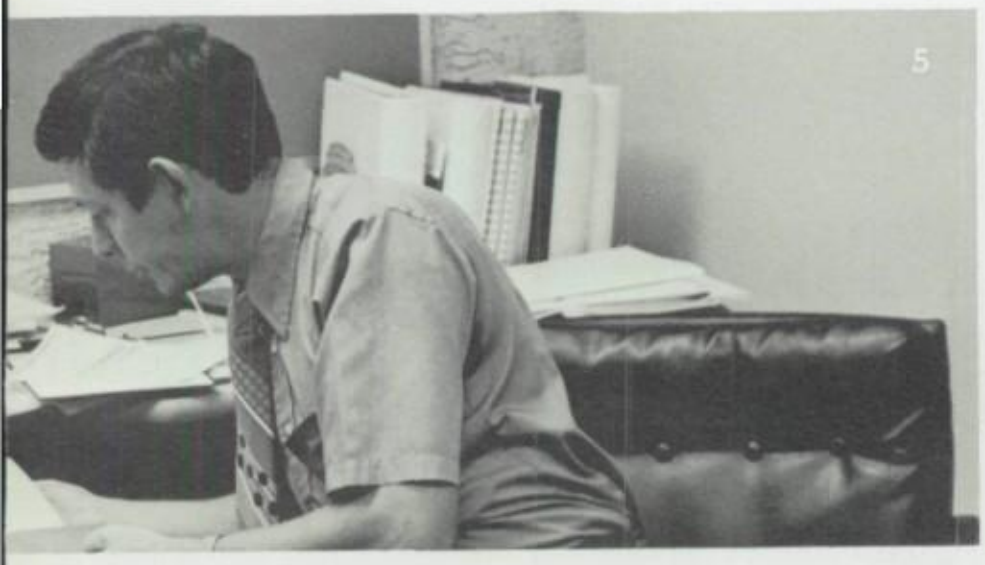
Thick workload lessened

The heavy administrative workload was lessened somewhat this year by the addition of a fourth supervisor, Ms. Jean Marsom.

Recognized throughout the school for her enthusiasm, Ms. Marsom says she is most happy "when working with the kids". She coordinated all student activities and some special faculty projects this year and completes the school administrative complement of four supervisors.

1-The smile on Mr. Curlett's face reflects his Toro pride. 2-The administrative heads discuss coming events. 3-Mr. Charles oversees his secretary as she looks for important papers. 4-While Ms. Marsom looks for a clock at registration, her picture is snapped. 5-Mr. Charles tries to find a student's schedule in his organized files. 6-Dr. Barrett gets his facts straight. 7-Dr. Brad Barrett, athletics director; 9-James Curlett, Principal; 10-Dale Charles, academics director.

with new addition

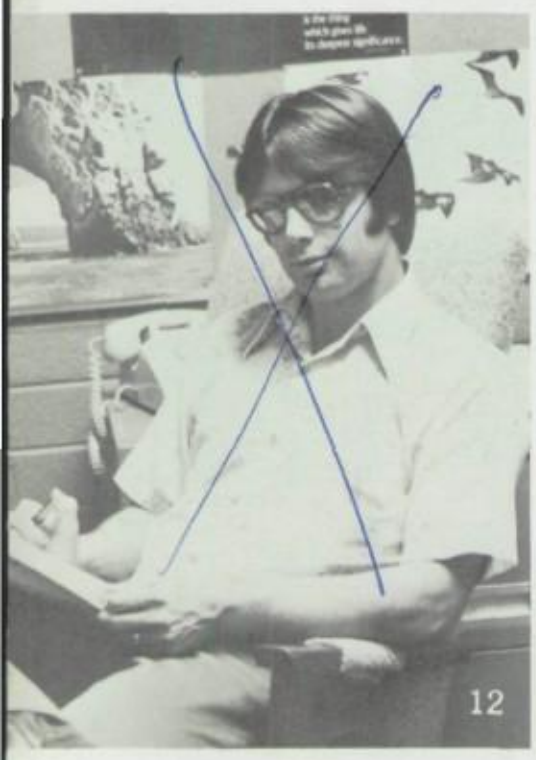


New counselors get in step and join the beat.

The counseling department expanded this year with the addition of four new faces and one new Place. Joining last year's counselors were Bill Stock, Dan Griego, Judy Wood, and Katherine Cahill.

The Place, where students receive information and help about careers and colleges from a computer as well as jobs available was run by Ms. Cahill.

1.-Lending a sympathetic ear to a troubled student, Mrs. Taylor offers cheerful advice. 2.-Caught by surprise while checking over a student's schedule is Mrs. Miller. 3.-Mr. Griego reads through the new school rules set by the Board of Education. 4.-"Mountain View Attendance, may I help you 5.-Mrs. Ortlund keeps her eyes on students as they phrase announcements. 6.- Miss Cahill uses her handy computer to find information on a student's future career. 7.-Carla West, Attendance Clerk. 8.- Susan Taylor, Attendance Clerk. 9.-Sandy Campbell, Registrar. 10.-Donna Ortlund, Principal Secretary. 11.-Arlene Kivett, Assistant Principal Secretary. 12.-Bill Stock, Counselor. 13.-Dan Griego, Counselor. 14.-Margaret Miller, Counselor. 15.-Cathy Cahill, Career Center Technician. 16.-Francelle Johnson, Attendance Clerk. 17.-Carolyn Jenkins, Counselors Secretary. 18.-Mary Lou Galindo, Assistant Principal Secretary. 19.-John Thomas, Counselor. 20.-Joe Diaz, Counselor.



Stimulating corollaries of the "beat": media

center, health office, and bookstore

The Media Center, consisting of the Audio Visual Department and Library, is a centrally located and heavily used area.

This year the Media Center added approximately six hundred more books and spent close to sixteen hundred dollars on magazines which are all for the student's use. Also, the Library has "showcases" in which they displayed the arts, crafts, and the finished products of the students' workshop classes.

The Bookstore is like a "little supply depot." Here, downstairs in the southeast corner of the school, supplies such as paper, pens, pencils, etc . . . are sold.

The versatile nurse's office, supplied and professionally staffed, is designed to provide emergency care for the ill or injured. Michelle Onacki, the school nurse, also provides informative and educational lectures on special health-related topics.

1- Girls gather in the empty patio area before school to catch up on what's happening. 2- Conference time in the cafeteria-Kenny Jackson, James Fitzpatrick, David Williams and Kirk Majors get together for a quick lunch. 3- Communications is security, Vernon "Lucky" Baldwin is in constant contact with police and campus security personnel. 4- Once a Marine always a Marine, Chuck Johnson recites the history of the founding of the Marine Corps during birthday celebration for the Corps. 5- Cafeteria Staff; Left to Right; Cara Manning, Marie Crandell, Fran Schultz, Claudet Barry, Nell Brown, Betty Green, Amma Muniz, John McGee, Mary Guerrero, Dianne Rischmueler, Stella Chiara, Frances Wallen, Delia McDermott, Bernice Barabiua, Susan Mate, Mavis Aaker. 6- Security Guards; Left to Right; Chuck Johnson, Vernon "Lucky" Baldwin, Bonnie Stone.

Support Personnel Serve And Secure

Being able to communicate with young people in such a way that mutual respect and cooperation are assured, is the main technique that a security guard needs. Despite the role of maintaining order and counteracting breaches of discipline such as ditching, smoking, vandalism, and fights, spokesman Vernon "Lucky" Baldwin said the guards prefer to be regarded as father figures or big brothers to the students and that their objective is to make the school a better place to be.

Not too many people realize the long hours put into cooking and preparing cafeteria food. For example, a normal day begins at the snack bar at 7:00 AM and extends through fourth and fifth lunches each day. With over 2100 students in the school, potential food waste must be avoided while anticipating wide demand as well.

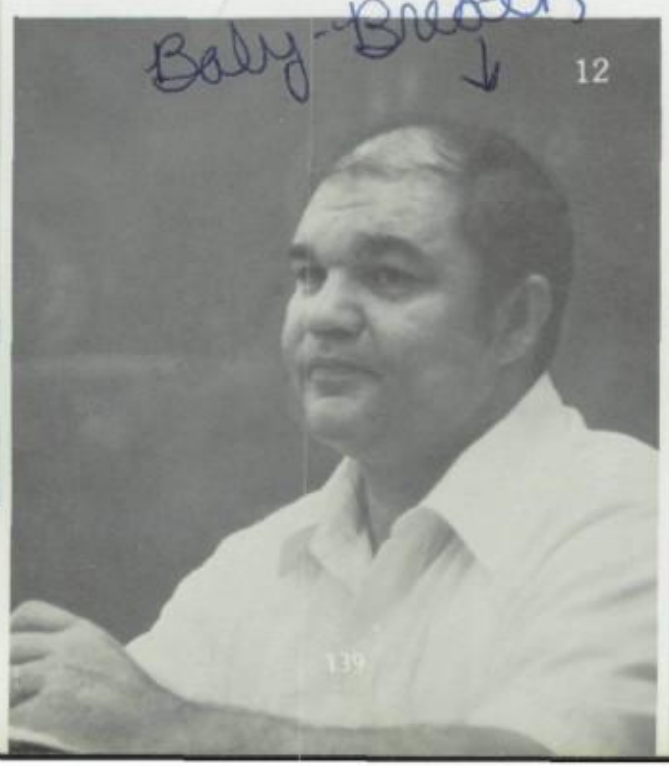
Math fulfills requirement

1- Mr. Slade explains angle and degree to his geometry class. 2- Vance Ewald receives personal tutoring from Mrs. Cain during first semester. 3- Clarifying the intricacies of Trigonometry, Mr. Gautreau emphasizes the need to apply basic principles. 4- Collecting algebra papers, Mr. Lax reminds Robert Palazetti to complete all problems. 5- Gordon Anderson, ACC Geometry, Math Anyl. 6- Mel Rudd, Algebra I & II, Geometry. 7- Wayne Slade, Geometry, Algebra II Trig., Geometry, Calculas. 8- Sandra Frei, Math Review, Geometry. 9- Jay Scott, Geometry, Algebra II, Math Anyl. 10- Wayne Gautreau, Algebra I, Algebra II, Trig, Computor Math. 11- Chuck Riden, Consumor Math, Basic Math, Algebra II. 12- Ron Lax, Algebra I, Geometry. 13- Nancy Cain, Geometry, Algebra II, Math Anyl. 14- Nan Cusic, Geometry, Algebra II, Math Anyl.

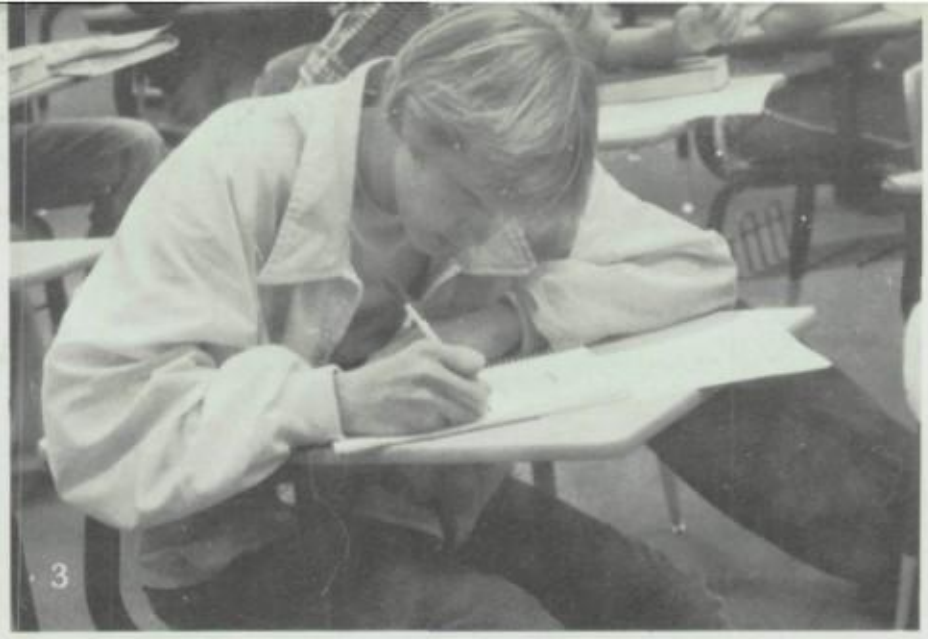
The math department requires every student to accomplish at least one math credit during his three year career at Mountain View. While any one of the department's offerings will satisfy this requisite, the goal of Mr. Wayne Slade and the math faculty is to involve as many of the two thousand students on campus as possible.

Mr. Slade added, "We have some of the finest math students in the state here at Mountain View."



English department set high standards

Under the leadership of Mr. David Bacon, the English Department set high standards for their students. Their chief goal was to establish sophomores in the fundamentals of grammar through Prin. of English I, and to sophisticate writing skills in the junior year through Prin. of English II. Additionally, advanced coursework and independant study were offered.



1-The noun's the thing .. or the person .. or the place, as Mrs. Raupp delightfully explains to sophies in Principles of English 1. 2-Mr. Anderson explains to Gene McDaniel the emphasis that correct German pronunciation requires. 3-Grinding out the grammar, Scott Butzke shows the form that made him an award-winning writer for Mtn. View. 4-Expressing the intensity of Shakespeare's romantic "Romeo and Juliet," Mrs. Myers indicates the fire of Juliet's maid. 5-Listening to a teenager is the most effective communication as Mrs. Doris Carlson indicates. 6-Spanish grammar is easy to grasp through Mr. Karchner's instruction. 7-John McGee, Principles of English I, Paperback Literature, College Prep Writing, Yearbook Advisor. 8-Norine Thornhill, Literary Explorations, American Heritage, Grammar review. 9-Sandra Bouley, American History Literature, Principles of English I & II. 10-Gordon Anderson, Geman I & II. 11-Cheryl Nelson, Literary Explorations, Principles of English II. 12-Joe Felix, Spanish I. 13-Becki Kimbrough, Principles of English I & II, Paperback Literature. 14-Chris Rilling, Children's Literature, Principles of English II. 15-Gail Raupp, Principles of English I, Grammar Review, College Prep Writing. 16-Doris Carlson, Literary Explorations; Principles of English I.

Language, economic key

As the international political situation becomes more and more intense, the study of foreign language has become more critical to the American student. Since Mexican oil will become more critical to the North American economic community, Spanish language skill has higher priority. In addition, German and French also will be critical in U.S. European common market dealings.

1- Mrs. Myers encourages her English students to emphasize concrete images in description. 2- Sometimes new ideas come out of the air, but writing essays is concentrated work for Kim Wygle. 3- Ms. Middleton gets her head together while counseling a writing student. 4- A telephone grows out of Mr. McGee's ear when deadlines have to be met. 5- Spanish pronounciation is emphasized by Mr. Felix as he listens to language recitation. 6- Mrs. Nelson's enthusiasm for the Pep Club easily extends to counceling Greg Umpleby in Eng. class. 7- Nancy Beck, LeMoyne Rapier, Mrs. Rilling, and Rhonda West delight in a selection from Children's Lit. 8- Mike Jackson, Science Fiction, Principles of English I & II, 9-Dick Saggio, Critical Writing; Principles of English II, Science Fiction, Mass Communications. 10- Tina Myers, C-P Writing; Principles of English I & II, Literary Explorations. 11- Amy Hull, French. 12- Esther Middleton, Fundamentals of English; Principles of English II, Literary Explorations, English and careers. 13- David Bacon, Principles of English I, Creative Writing, Paper Back Lit., 14- Debbie Morton, Newspaper Advisor; Journalism II, Principles of English I & II, Paper Back Lit. 15- Rey Karchner, Conversational Spanish, Spanish I, II & III. 16- Mike Elliot, A-P English; Mass Communications, Literary Explorations, Gifted English.

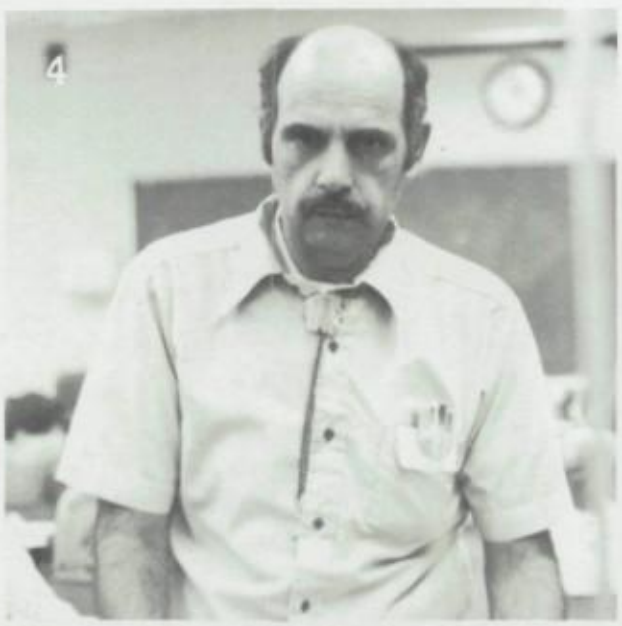
Science builds a better understanding

"The purpose of the Science Department is to help students to understand how their natural environment works", said Tom Atkins, department chairperson.

Numerous and varied science courses are taught, ranging from first year Biology to the more advanced courses of Chemistry and Physics.

A fieldtrip to the University of New Mexico was planned for those students who did individual study-research programs. Sophisticated materials and workshops expanded the curriculum in the basic courses.

1-Dick Hawkins explains the finer points of Biology to his class. 2-Gene Hearst aids Joni Worsley with her Chemistry homework. 3-Tom Atkins demonstrates experimental results while Lynne Throckmorton and Craig LaFortune listen attentively. 4-Gene Hearst, Chemistry; 5-Shirley Meade, Biology; 6-Dick Hawkins, Biology; 7-Michael Hitt, Physics; 8-Al Jaeckel, Geology, Marine Science, Astronomy; 9-Tom Atkins, Biology I-II; 10-Dawn Lemcke, Biology: 11-Michael Hynes, Chemistry, Physics.



Curriculum expands to meet progress

As our new high school has progressed, the curricular has expanded as well. The social studies department has kept up with the expansion by improving the quality of course offereings through book selection and course planning while anticipating broader needs of an ever-changing social society.

1-While enjoying special tutoring Lori Santro happily learns from Mr. Haddad. 2-Joe Pico explains puzzling question asked by a Psychiology student. 3-B.J. Sauls, Human Relations; Sociology, Government, D.M. 4-Collecting Free Enterprise tests, Mr. Haggerson anticipates a long night of grading papers. 5-Louis Dodez, Free Enterprise. 6-Ken Haddad, Government C.E. 7-Curt Brown, American Dream. 8-Alan Moore, Free Enterprise; American History. 9-Herb Hillman, Government C.E., Wars and Presidents. 10-Wayne Vala, American History. 11-Joe Pico, Psychology; American History, Political Parties. 12-Marie Pinto, Government. 13-John Kliener, Govt.-Futurism, A.H. As a planned program of physical development, all team sports, weightlifting, archery, swimming, aerobic dance, raquetball, tennis, and speedaway.

Showmen prepare for the great beat

Student tutors were an extension to the reading dept. this year. They were asked to help students who were having difficulties in their classes. These tutors, usually strong scholars themselves, are able to spend time with there colleagues when teachers are not available. In addition, the tutors drill the reader with teacher-prepared materials to insure high instructional quality.

Elsewhere, in drama, a new instructor, Mrs. Nadeau, opened up the season with a three one act play project utilizing many actors and techniques.

This year's varsity football team had the type of season that made the school beam with pride. On the road or at home the Toros showed they knew how to play and win. The team had many strong points but dominant was their togetherness. "Never before have I felt so close to a team; each and every player meant as much to me and to each other," Coach Parker said. Although Coach Parker was recognized throughout the state and nominated for Arizona "Coach of the Year," in typical fashion, he gave full credit to his assistants, Joe Pico and Norm Shill, calling them "Marvelous coaches." In achieving the impossible dream of a championship in their first season in the league, the Toros exhibited the indispensable ingredient to human accomplishment, dedication, determination, devotion . . . love.

Winning all the marbles in the first year of AAA competition was considered by most fans as a remarkable accomplishment by the new kids in town, but it was not easily realized. Following the advice of the coaching staff who reminded the players "you don't get to the top by sitting back and watching," the Mountain View gridders ground out 2 and 3 hour practice sessions and a six-day schedule that trimmed fat and hardened muscles. As one player said, "Between Coach Parker and my girl, I forgot where home was." Despite the hardwork and intensity, the team accomplished the impossible and took home the State Championship.

A championship team relies on no one person for excellence, but two members who stood out as superior among the Mountain View Toros were Rodney Brewer and Keith Miller. Rodney electrified fans time and again with break-away runs, the most astounding, a 95 yard kickoff return with seconds remaining to upset McClintock. In like fashion, Keith Miller rescued the victory in desperate situations repeatedly throughout the season.

Junior football team rushes to victory

This year's junior football team put on quite a showing. Juniors coached by John Kleiner and John Richardson led the way to a fantastic 8-1 record. Their only loss was to a varsity team. Leading the offensive charge was full-back Duane Clouse who completed 1,000 yards plus, rushing. Gary Joplin contributed with 2 safties, and an interception for a touchdown. When asked about the team and their season, Coach Kleiner replied, "Super! They did everything that was asked of them." The talented junior players will provide great potential for next season, and the varsity coaches are looking forward to having these skilled juniors move up to the varsity team.

Junior Varsity scrambles their way up

The junior varsity football team, was led to a successful season by coach Wheeler, assisted by coach Brady. Coach Wheeler added that they show great potential for future Mountain View teams. He also added that the spirit and enthusiasm they displayed contributed to the team's success. This has been proven throughout the year by the improvement they have made as individuals. When the season ended, Brett Porter, John Coleman, Jimmy Duranti, Bill Frost, Mike Edison, Mike Bryant, and Kevin VanNorman were promoted to the varsity team. With 5 wins and 4 losses, is an encouraging promise to the toro tradition.

Hey it's been fun bugging you and I hope I get to next year. So have fun this summer & will be looking for you. #40 Rod McCormack

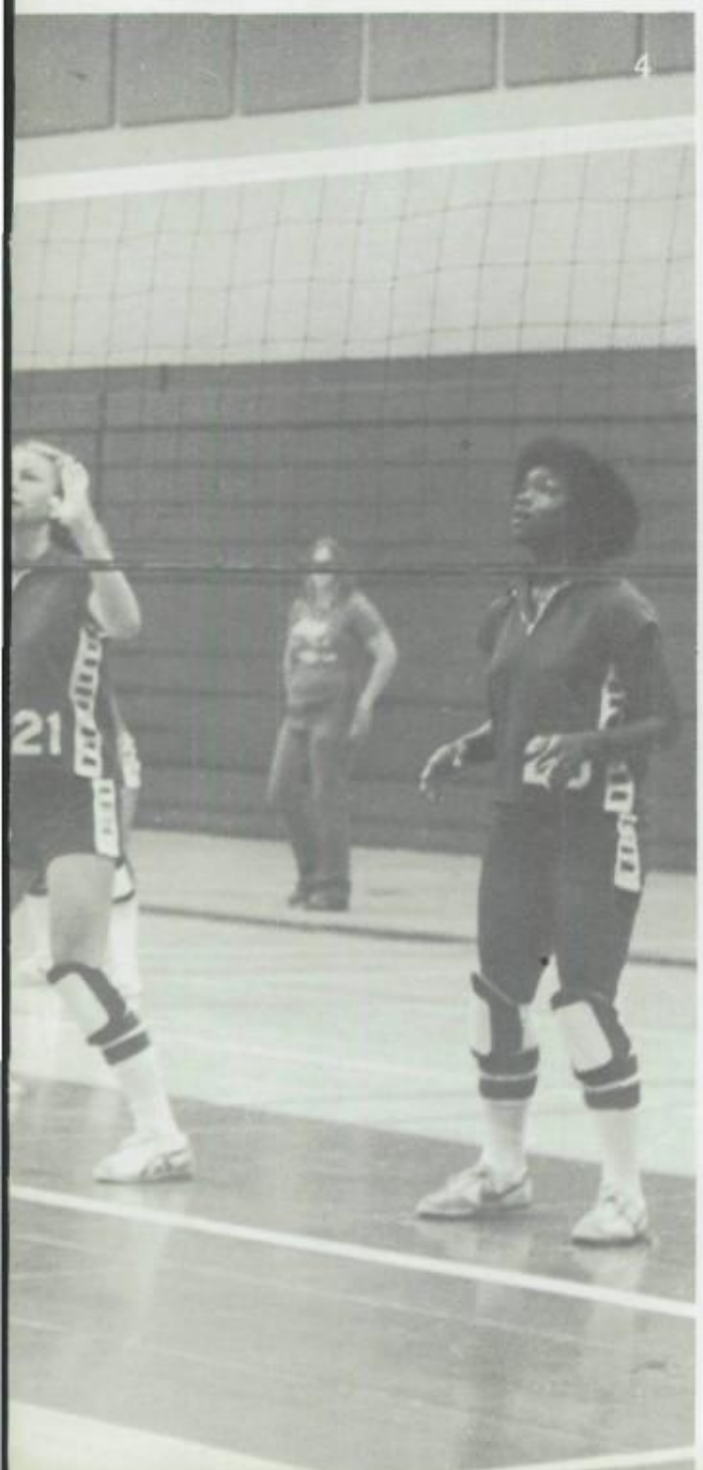
Enthusiastic spikers smash opposition



This year's varsity volleyball team was extremely dedicated, in putting in many hours of torturous practice. Although Coach Debbie Farren was disappointed in terms of win-loss record, she feels tremendous progress was made in skill level. There were, however, many bright spots and brightest among them was that two players were named to the Tribune All-City Team; senior, Sandi Germaine and junior, Gail Peters. Coach Farren is very optimistic about next season, and her chief goal is to improve team records and qualify for divisional playoffs, by building around experience and strong team work and dedication.

Twisting their way to success, the Toro's Varsity wrestling team showed they had the makings of winners. The grappling squad did a job on the mats and carried themselves to an 8 and 3 overall meet record, while adding a victory in the Chapparal Tournament. The teams success can be attributed to hard work on the wrestlers part, and a great job of coaching by Richard Griffin. "We won many matches due to our superior conditioning," says coach Griffin. The Toro's practice consisted of lots of running and plenty of warming up, and that's what it takes to beat the heat. An example of this is Tim Castillo, who took 3rd place at state.

J.V. wrestlers prove sports excellence

Mountain View has been recognized for sports excellence and J.V. wrestling is not about to be the exception. The team went 10 and 2 on the year and accumulated a total of 526 points while allowing only 187 points to their opponents. "Wrestling is a grueling sport, and a winning wrestler is probably the athlete who is in the best shape," says Coach Jerry Wheeler. The Toros keep "taking down" the opposition without any "nearfall"; they've "escaped" the "pin" and that's the route to success.

Although disappointed by a mediocre Cross Country record this year, Coach Mike Jackson sees encouraging potential for next year and flet that the development of personnel this year was a point of pride. Such standouts as Bruce Sutton who, for the third straight year, won the Most Valuable Runner Trophy, and Nimrod Thomas who is a returner next year, gave excellent service. Despite the early loss of four starters, the Mountain View Toros tasted the sweet fruits of victory.

Val Winkle was selected as Varsity Softball's outstanding female player and Miriam Heap improved the most by vote of the team. In addition, Florence Brinton was distinguished as the greatest source of team inspiration.

Despite a lop-sided win-loss record, the girl's competition was intense and many of the games, particularly a slug-fest with Kofa, and a tight loss to Westwood, were exciting and action packed. Linda Koker, coach of the team expressed enthusiasm for the spirited effort of her girl's this year.

Amy Hull, girl's softball coach was thrilled with the intensity and performance of her players this year. In fact, she felt that at season's end the girls were "unbeatable." When describing the final weeks of the season Mrs. Hull said, "our season was terrific. We had a spirited team that worked well together and by the end of the schedule, we were unbeatable. Next year we expect to achieve Mountain View's first winning season in girl's sports."

Cagers shoot their way to the playoffs

The Mountain View cagers shot their way into the playoffs this year by coming through, winning in the clutch. After a scrambling comeback from their season loss against the Westwood Warriors, the determined Toros won four of their last six games. However, against Casa Grande, their gallant playoff effort came to an end, 53-59.

Overcoming some early season injuries and a few uneven performances, racking thirteen victories gave the team a winning season, playoff status, and an intensity of determination admired by all.

Although varsity sports grabs the headlines for the wonderful success Mesa sports teams have experienced. it is a direct result of concentrated hard work by the junior varsity coaches and players. An excellent example of this is the Mountain View basketball program during which hard conditioning and practice led the team to a balanced record that developed outstanding candidates for the varsity squad next year. Indicative of that potential was five victories in the last six games of the 1978-1979 junior varsity season. From this sort of material many championship teams have been shaped.

Dave Passante

Smooth delivery, timed footwork, and perfect balance are the objectives of Dave Passante as, in striding ballet, he practices bowling at Apache Lanes. The team he helped organize named themselves "Saturday Night Confusion" because they bowl on Saturdays. Presently, Dave is only carrying an average of around 150, but as each match is completed, his timing improves and more pins seem to tumble into the pit.

Although "shooting the bull" is just a figure of speech for most people; to junior classman Cliff Buckels, marksman, it's his objective. As a dedicated and accomplished member of the Arizona State Rifle Team, Cliff is classified as a "sharpshooter" and has taken fourth place against national competition at the United States meet in Ohio where Cliff's best-rated categories were "standing" and "rapid fire".

Cliff Buckels

Tad Crowe

He goes to the desert every month and eats dust, but Tad Crowe loves the diet because racing a motorcross bike keeps his attention from wandering. For five years, Tad has raced motorcross and though he prefers Hondas, he races a Yamaha at Beeline Raceway and on 100 mile desert races monthly in Mexico, Arizona, and California. When Tad leaves high school, he plans to enter national competition.

Doug Peters

Mountain View is the home of many champions, and Doug Peters has personally taken the laurels of victory quite often as a waterskiing athlete. Besides winning the famous Catalina Race, Doug has also been designated National Champion Water Skier on two seperate occasions. Since Doug has been competing for 7 years, he has improved his speed and competitive ranking to the point where is now sponsered by the Maherajah ski manufacturer. Doug has also achieved status as regional high point Champion and has an opportunity to compete in Australia.

Diversified sports keep Toro's active

Skimming over flawless ice or balancing on tip toes, Carmaleta Albertson has won six trophies and five metals in skate competition throughout her young career. During hours of pursuing perfection at Oceanside Ice Arena, Carmelita has had dreams of participating in the Olympics and a professional career. Although her winter competition is limited to the local valley, when the spring and summer come, Carmaleta extends her range of competition, going into other nearby states to skate in national competition.

excel in City's competitive championships

Participation by Mountain View students in the Tri-City League Championship went very well this season with 5 wins and 2 losses being posted by the team dominated by Mountain View students. Although the team consisted of players within the tri-city area, many students from Mountain View participated, and its coach is Mr. Anderson, a math and German teacher at the school. The teams greatest strength was speed and the particular efforts of Matt Bell, who was an outstanding player.

Convening daily, Student Body officers oversee and approve $30,000 of student expenditures every year, and function as a public relations source for the school. This year, the student council sponsored a major rock concert, ran football concessions, and organized a campus-wide clean-up project.

Tony Calderone, council president said, "One of our main goals is to let the rest of the state know we've got the finest school there is."

As a goal-oriented organization, the group has attempted to realize certain objectives this year including, football game fireworks, raising funds for A.F.S. to expand participations by students, and writing up a policy and procedures manual for student activities.

Pom pons, cheers, charge crowds with pep and pride

With this year's addition of two new male yell leaders and a new mascot, the varsity cheerleaders have done their best to charge Mountain View with more school spirit than ever before. Their year began at the World Cheerleader Camp where they received the all-around spirit award, and also received an excellent and two superior ratings. During the school year, they cheered at pep assemblies and at varity football and basketball games.

The J.V. cheerleaders, who were selected in September, cheered at both Junior and the J.V. games throughout their winning seasons.

Our spirited pom pon line, the Madrilenas, attended the summer camp at NAU where they earned the leadership award. They performed their routines at halftime and pep assemblies.

Both spirit clubs cheer Toros on to winning seasons

Promoting interest in all sports is Pep Club's purpose. The club attends and advertises all games, cheering the Toros on to winning seasons.

To be in Pep Club, a student must have lots of spirit and willingness to work hard for Toro teams.

This year, the Pep Club sponsored a cookie sale, a sports cushion sale, and a car wash. A percentage of their earnings goes to help build the football stadium.

Another spirit club is Toros of Great Ability Society. Togas, full of wild spirit, attend games chanting their own cheers. The official dress is the Toga.

Yearbook Deadlines:

Staffers work under pressure creatively

Deadlines: The publications staffs worked long hard hours to beat them. Producing a quality yearbook or newspaper depends upon how well the staffs meet the challenge of the publisher's deadlines.

This year both publications began the year with new advisors from outside the Mesa district; Mr. Jack McGee (yearbook) and Ms. Debbie Morton (newspaper).

Additionally, both staffs were made up largely of inexperienced, but dedicated students, who ditched classes, donated their lunch hours, and stayed after school to help produce the third La Vista annual, and ten issues of the Viewpoint.

Various choirs express good quality

Requirements to be in a chorus include a good vocal quality, ability to sight read, good showmanship, and ability to sing solos. It's obvious Mountain View's choirs have those qualities.

Students from Los Cantantes, the top concert choir, who have dancing ability, can also audition for Encore. Both of these groups, and Los Palomitas, the all girls choir, perform at various concerts and activities, including the fall, Christmas, and spring concerts, along with the Jester Hairston concert.

Los Cantantes also sang at Tri-City Mall at Christmas time, and at the Best of Broadway Review.

New choral group and new beginnings

Premiere, a newly-formed choral group, auditions junior and senior girls in anticipation of long hours of rehearsal. The choral group stages a Christmas season performance and a Best of Broadway Review that's arranged each year. The organization has also entertained several Mesa community clubs.

Organized by director David Perry, the girls wear coordinated costumes and develop a repertoire of many songs appropriate to the occasion of performance. The organization is composed of twenty girls who must individually satisfy a stringent audition prior to acceptance as a participant, but auditions are open to any junior or senior girl, with the ability to sing solos and the desire to perform well.

Los Travadores, the sophomore mixed choral group, and Los Mariposa, the sophomore all-girls choir performed in the Christmas and Spring concert.

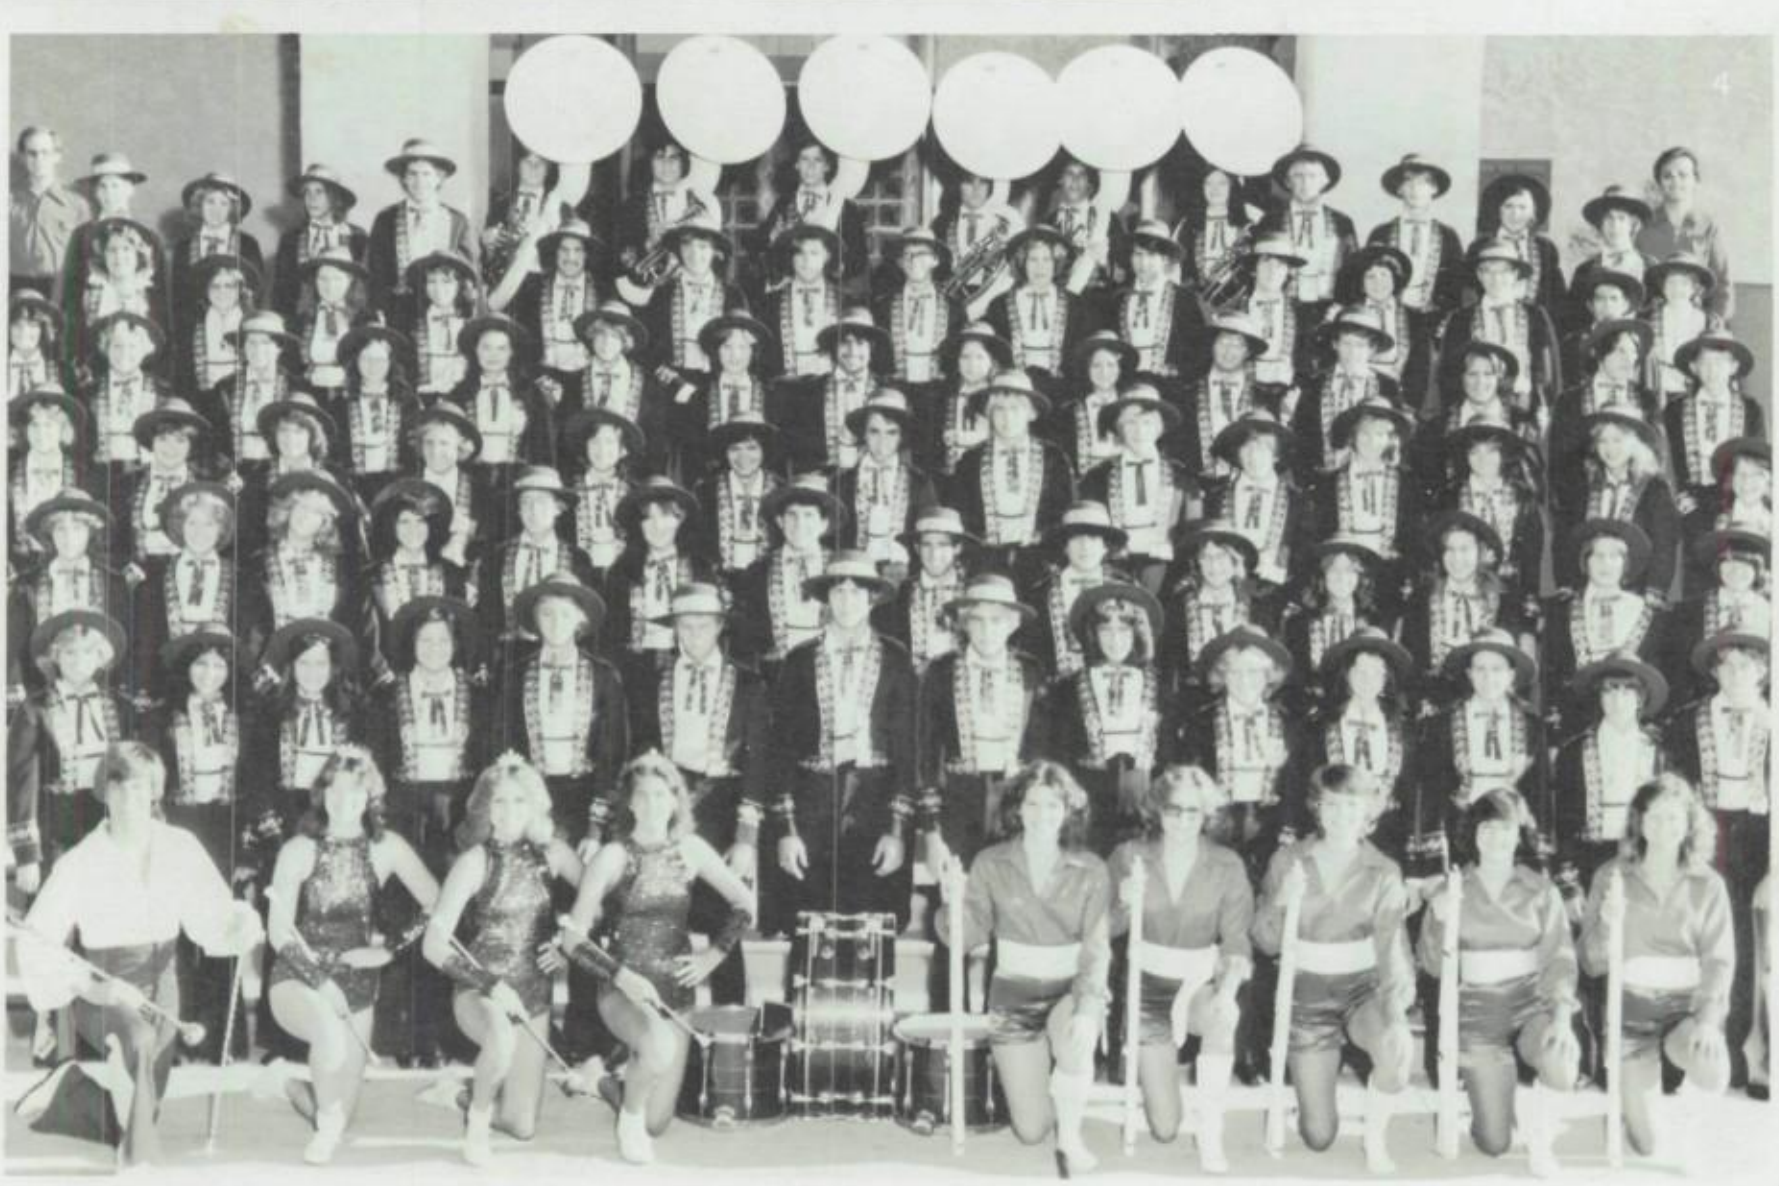
Matador and Toro band action packed with spirit

Experimenting with the unique has earned a fine reputation for the Mountain View Toro band and their director, Mr. Joe Lloyd.

Throughout autumn, the band performed at twelve football games, where they have created a spirited atmosphere, and given the team support for their winning seasons.

To support the activities of the band, members raised money selling candy, sausage, and programs as well as sponsoring the "Woody Herman and his Herd" live concert. As a result of their dedicated practice, the Toro marching band earned a superior rating at the A.S.U. Festival.



Orchestra, Jazzers bring out "the beat"

It was another year of great performances for Mountain View's symphony orchestra. They sold candy, cheese, sausage and donuts to finance their trips to music festivals. A variety of school assemblies and concerts also highlighted their year.

The Jazz Band, directed by Mr. Lloyd, will be best remembered their outstanding performances as they provided music for our pep assemblies. With their cool wit and boss style, they produced a great boogie sound that won the hearts of all.

Dancing clubs disco here and there

The dance club, sponsored by Mrs. Arredondo, has had a full schedule of events during the year. They hosted the Mieko Fuji dance company of Japan. The group also learned new disco dance steps.

A new performing dance team was added to the program this year, taking on the name of "Las Danzantes." The group performed in student assemblies and at community functions.

Matmaids, a spirit team, support both J.V. and Varsity wrestling.

NHS, AFS boost scholarship, good will

The American Field Service Club, better known as A.F.S., was sponsored this year by Mrs. Cain. The club's main interests were Mountain View's foreign exchange students, Anne Krall and Mike Nakade. During Homecoming and A.F.S. week, the club sponsored several class competitions to raise money. The funds will be used to sponsor next year's foreign exchange students and those who will be representing our school in a foreign country during the summer months, which should prove to be exciting.

Members of the National Honor Society are selected by faculty on standards of grade point average, citizenship, and extracurricular activities. With Mrs. Hogan as sponsor, the group has kept a high standard of excellence. Even though the members of the club may be considered "the smartest kids in school", they have proven themselves as a service club through their efforts to aid the community. They have also sponsored many school activities including the Christmas disco dance which was put on the night of December 15th.

Ethnic culture enjoyed by everyone

As part of their club accomplishments, the French Club had the objective this year of language and cultural development through visits to French restaurants and ethnic parties.

Los Aztecas Mexicanos Club enhances the development of the Mexican-American culture. The club held an exciting Pinata break during Christmas week and sold tamales in November.

Los Sabios (The Wise), Mountain View's Spanish Club, is sponsoring a school in South America. To do so, members have held car washes and food sales.

NATIONAL CHORUS

Future farmers are high yield crop

Perhaps one of the most active groups at Mountain View, F.F.A.'s schedule of activities extend beyond school hours.

Individually, several members participate in parades, others are involved in the Arizona National Livestock Show and the Maricopa County Fair. Together though, the Future Farmers of America sponsored a barbeque along with Aggie week where members display their animals and farm machinery.

Mountain View's chapter has many awards and accomplishments to be proud of, such as being state winners of the dairy cattle judging contest, and Most Active F.F.A. Chapter for the Superstition district.

By serving others, servants grow

Scienta Sodacitas's biggest interest this year was getting as many people as possible involved in research projects. Better known as Science club, this group's activities included trips to the Grand Canyon.

Carpenter's Guild has had many active projects this year including a hayride and a snow trip, but these people primarily come together to share ideas.

One of our school's deepest mysteries is what the "S" in "S" Club signifies. Helping the community and school with club projects, and in meeting new friends, the "S" Club provides Service; and that's what "S" Club represents.

C.O.E., D.E.C.A. makes business their business

The purpose of Distributive Education Clubs of America, or D.E.C.A., is to give the student a chance to learn how to run a business; selling techniques, running cash registers, and displaying merchandise. One of the aspects of D.E.C.A. is the student store. Some students involved plan to continue in business law or merchandising.

Giant Christmas coloring books and a sample cosmetic pack were sold by D.E.C.A.

Unlike D.E.C.A., Cooperative Office Education, or C.O.E., deals solely in secretarial work. This year, the groups fund-raising ideas included the sales of spirit balloons and candy. They also sponsored a car wash.

Specialized groups serve, study culture

Mountain View's Youth A.R.C. (Association for Retarded Citizens) sponsored by Mr. Kunde, made great strides in service for the Parkway school of Mesa. In order for the members to do their projects for the school, the students sold candy to earn money. The funds went towards a final donation to the Parkway school and several activities throughout the year. All of the members agreed that the year's service was very rewarding.

Sponsored by Ms. Richards, the Indian Club had a very successful year. Their activities involved the students with the study of the cultures and foods of their Indian heritage. Ms. Richards felt that the year was very productive for all members. Their fry bread sale was a highlight of the year, providing a fund and fun for the group. All of the club members enjoyed the year, and have contributed to a tradition of a fine club.

Chess challenges;

Actors promote performance

The Chess Club, sponsored by Mr. Anderson, had a membership of thirteen whose main goal was a correspondence game with another club in California. They also anticipated matches with local schools.

The Drama Club continued with a tradition of excellence in the performing arts; the members being chosen by audition. A goal was set by the club at the beginning of the year to bring quality entertainment to our school, which was accomplished with talent and practice.

The Stage Crew, headed by Mrs. Nadeau, had nine ever energetic members who kept things running smoothly for all of the auditorium activities this year. They spent many hours of their after school time in organizaing, rehearsing, and producing successful lighting and audio technique. They gave their services to all school productions and assemblies and did so for community programs as well. They receive little credit, but without their help, the productions whould not have been possible for our enjoyment.

Boosters raise morale to high standards

When asked the purpose of Toro Booster Club, Mr. George Rubelsky summed it all up by saying, " (our purpose is to) Promote spirit, help students take pride in themselves, the community, and the school."

The club involves itself in football programs, and sponsoring various activities. They are mostly school-oriented, donating money to worthy causes.

In operation since Mountain View began, the club has twelve active members. Unlike many other parent organizations, the Boosters attempt to reward academic accomplishment as well as athletic success. The group acts as a service organization providing such support as the administration, staff and students require throughout the year.

Dear Staff,

Believe it or not, we are still sane, (at least I think we are). I know we'll all remember the lost requisition slips, pizza parties, short headlines, candy runs, skating party, used 3 C's, and dirty jokes. In the end, we made a great book, but it sure took a lot of hard work, tears, and determination. We started as strangers but worked together to become very close. I will always remember my staff, Mr. Mcgee, and this year because it was so special to me.

Tina -
I think that you're a sweet person (you're cute too.) You have a lot going for you and I think your going to go far in life. I hope you get the best of it 'cause you deserve it. I especially hope you get a great guy. Mark was better but maybe now you can get somebetter. Lots of luck in the future!

Tina:
Well! Tina we finally made it thru the year and I hope that you injayed it just as much as I did, Im really glad me and you got to be Good friends because you are sweet and understanding in many different ways, sometimes you helped me out with problems just by listening too me, and I'm going to ask a favor of you could you please, allways pray for me in your prayers because somehow God doesn't seem to listen to my prayers. I hope you have a fine summer and stay out of trouble and I hope you don't ever change your way of being because with out your sweet ways you wouldnt be tina. Don't skeme to much and allways remember that you have a friend to reach out for, and I will allway consider you as my Good friend.
